"Good Things to Eat"

That's all we carry. Whether it's a staple, like sugar, or a fancy table delicacy, like imported cheese, we have it, and in a quality absolutely dependable.

Every product that enters this store must stand rigid examination. Each article is chosen from many brands offered, because it has proved its superior merit.

Each brand competes for preference, and none gains a place on our shelves if it fails to measure up to our high standard of quality.

The Electa process of slow-cooking and dry-curing preserves the genuine coffee flavor and improves it.

In using Electa Coffee you are sure of the finest quality—a satisfaction that in itself would make Electa worth more than other coffees.

Compare it with any you ever drank before. You'll like the roasting flavor and the glorious aroma.

Logan Howard's

Bourbon Circuit Court.

In the Bourbon Circuit Court, Friday, in the case of Paul Hanley vs. the Burley Tobacco Society, the jury could not agree on a verdict and were discharged.

During the morning session the grand jury reported the finding of nine indictments, among which was that of W. H. Lucas for willful murder. Lucas is charged with the murder of Wm. Sagaser. During the afternoon, the grand jury made an additional report, dismissing the charges against Chas. Hicks for the killing of George Franklin Myers, the evidence before the jury showing that the killing was accidental.

Large number of cases, both civil and criminal have been continued to the March term.

The grand jury made its final report and was discharged. A total of 22 indictments was returned, among which were Watt and Cleveland Stafford for malicious cutting and wounding; James Macom malicious shooting; William Leer, forgery, same, robbery; John Henry Jones and Robert Hughes, breaking into the depot of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Millersburg for the purpose of stealing; Robert Stevenson, malicious cutting; George Smith, alias "Alabama," same charge; Hugh Rogers, housebreaking; Joe Baker murder, and James Myers, contempt of court.

Judge Bagby adjourned court till Tuesday morning, owing to Monday being county court day. The week promises to be a busy one as the case of the commonwealth vs. Lucas, for the murder of William Sagaser has been set for trial today, and the case of Barton's administratrix vs. Barton and the Prescott will case for trial on Wednesday. Judge Bagby has heard the evidence and arguments of attorneys in the divorce case of A. B. Thomson vs. Lotta Thomson, and has taken the matter under advisement.

The Kentucky Blue Grass Corn Show.

The first annual exhibit of the Kentucky Blue Grass Corn Show will occur at Lexington, Ky., December 10, 11 and 12. The show will be held at Jackson Hall, which is a large hall situated near the Union Station and admirably suited for displaying the corn and also the machinery and other articles which have been offered as prizes.

The purpose of the Blue Grass Corn Show, as conceived by its originators and promoters, is to create and encourage an intelligent interest in corn growing as to cultivation and selection, to the end that the yield of corn may be increased and greater success and prominence given to the growing of this great crop.

Statistics show that the yield per acre of corn in Kentucky is from five to ten bushels less than that in the neighboring States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and others, while the possibilities of our climate and soil are not correspondingly less. A great deal of interest has been created by the holding of a number of local corn shows in the State recently, i. e. those at Paris and Versailles, and the School Children's Contests instituted by Commissioner Rankin, and the indications are that this show, being held in the central part of the State, will be very successful and but the beginning of larger shows in the future.

Classes are open to Fayette county, to the State and the country at large, and prizes have already been received from several professional growers who will exhibit here as well as many local growers. Attractive premium lists have been issued and may be had by applying to the Secretary of the Kentucky Blue Grass Corn Show, Lexington. These premium lists include over $400 worth of premiums, in cash, machinery and merchandise, and liberal prizes are offered for the different classes. The show will continue through three days, the last day being Monday, December 13, when all the exhibits will be sold at auction. This will afford an opportunity for farmers buying the prize winning samples, to secure some excellent seed corn. For all information address the Secretary, A. H. Gilbert, Kentucky Blue Grass Corn Show, Lexington, Kentucky.

Christmas Turkeys.

Many turkey raisers of Central Kentucky are holding their turkeys for the Christmas market in the hope of securing better prices for the birds than were offered before Thanksgiving, and this is said to have given rise to the belief that shortage of the crop existed, which is not the case. In several of the Blue Grass counties housewives who attend principally to the business of raising the fowls have taken the cue from the tobacco growers and organized turkey pools for boosting the price. The women of Shelby and Henry counties during the past week organized strong pool, elected officers and propose to hold their turkeys for twenty cents a pound, which they claim is a reasonable price for the birds. They already have 3,000 turkeys in the pool, and have called another meeting at Newcastle for today, December 7th, when it is expected that every housewife who has turkeys yet unsold will come into the pool.

Without question there are more turkeys than remain unsold in Central Kentucky than at any previous season. While the crop in this section was not as large as in former years, the immense increase in the crops in the West and Southwest fairly glutted the eastern market and large numbers remain unsold and are now in cold storage waiting the Christmas market. Commission men in the city markets say prices will not rule as high Christmas as they were at Thanksgiving. Texas alone sent twice as many turkeys to the North and East as any other three States, and experienced buyers say that on account of the birds feeding principally on pecans and other nut mast the flesh is superior flavor, and the bringing top prices in any market.

Raise in Assessment.

The State Railroad Commission has completed its annual assessment of the tangible property of the railroads doing business in Kentucky for taxation purposes this year. Several roads came in for heavy increases in assessment, due to the greatly increased earnings as shown by their annual reports.

The total assessed railroad valuation of railroad property in Kentucky for 1909 is raised by the commission to $65,885,718, as against $63,753,699 for last year an increase of $2,132,019. Every division of the L. & N. railroad is given an increase except the Shelby division, which is decreased $480. The total increase of assessment against the L. & N. is $367,771. Other increases on the valuation of the other roads of the State was as follows: Mobile and Ohio, increased by $77,388; Morehead and North Fork, $36,000; southern railway in Kentucky, main line, increased by $9,015; Lexington division decreased by $35,280.

Big Inducement.

The city of Topeka, Kansas, has secured the meeting of the international Convention of the Christian church by offering as an inducement 25,000 yellow legged chickens. Had this been offered to a Methodist meeting, we would readily understand, but it seems that our brethren of the Christian faith like their chicken, too. It is as natural for a preacher to like fried chicken as it is for water to run down hill, and we have never known one who could not polish a bone with ease and grace. —Richmond Ulmex.

Whisky Hearing.

On request of the Kentucky Distillers Association the State Board of Valuations and Assessments will set a day, the first part of this week, to hear protests from the whisky men against the assessment of $9 a barrel placed on whisky. The whisky men say that the assessment, which was only tentative is too high and that whisky is not worth $9 a barrel when it is made. The assessment last year was only $8 a barrel.

Christmas Money for Teachers.

"School teachers in Kentucky must have their Christmas money and will have it if I can see to it always," said Capt. Ed. Fahey, State Treasurer, Saturday afternoon. The salaries of teachers, which is to be their Christmas money will be sent out this month in time for the teachers to spend it for Christmas presents. The money is not due until December 16 and at that time the school teachers will find their checks honored by the State. To the county school teachers will be paid $816,000 and to the city school teachers $205,000.

Get Busy.

Less than three weeks remain until Christmas. Most people have already begun planning gift making and not a few have made purchases this far in advance. The shopping will become faster and more "furious" from this time on, and of course the stores that advertise are the ones who are attracting your attention if you are going to make any Christmas gifts. This is as it should be. The store that really has the Christmas goods did not get them to let them lie on their shelves until after the holidays, hence they are going to let people know they have Christmas goods.

Secretary's Report.

In his annual report Secretary of the Navy Meyer opposes the abandonment of any of the navy yards at present in use. The Secretary believes that the time may come when these yards are needed and may have to be repurchased at big prices should they be closed now.

Big Fight Settled.

The final articles for the heavyweight championship fight between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson were signed Friday. They will fight forty-five rounds or more in either Utah or California before Tex Rickard's club on July 4. The referee will be selected sixty days before the contest.

Mild Laxative for Baby Free

The child of today is the parent of the future, and whether it grows up healthy and strong, or puny and weak, depends upon the intelligence of its parents, for most children are born into the world healthy, but thousands become future weaklings between birth and the age of ten, when the parents are still in greatest control.

The prime cause of trouble is in the stomach. A baby that is digesting its food seldom cries and always looks cheerful; the little child whose stomach is good romps and plays and never whines; the growing child learns well at school and is eager for fun if its head is clear and its stomach light, and that means if it has no constipation. The best and safest way to cure any irregularity of the stomach and bowels in children is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a liquid laxative wonderful in its effect as Mrs. John W. Dunham, Apple Creek, O., Mrs. H. L. Cullum, Plainville, Ind., and numerous others can testify who give it to their children with extraordinary results. A bottle only costs 50 cents or $1 according to the size you want, and even one 50-cent bottle will do a wonderful amount of good in a family. It can be given to any member of the family in constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, dyspepsia, heartburn, sick headache and similar digestive troubles. It never gripes or strangles like pills, tablets, salts and powders, which should not be given to children, women or old folks.

If you have a child or other member of the family who needs, but has never used this grand laxative tonic, send your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent to your home. In this way you can find out what it will do without personal expense.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill.

The Knot in Ships' Flags.

Besides signaling, there are other uses to which ships' flags may be put. Visitors to any of the big seaports frequently observe a vessel flying a flag with a knot tied in one corner of it. This sign, not generally understood by the uninitiated, is meant to attract the attention of a customs officer, who knows at once that the vessel displaying it wishes to ship or to consume a quantity of bonded goods, i. e., tobacco, liquors, etc., his presence being necessary to break the seal before such goods can be utilized.—The Sunday Magazine.

War Damages.

Capt. Calhoun, who has been so successful in prosecuting claims against the government, is now taking depositions in a number of private cases. Among his claims is one of the estate of Rev. Thomas Arnold for $32,000 for damages to his estate when it was occupied by General Lew Wallace's troops during the civil war. Dr. Arnold was a minister of the Christian church, well known in this section, and the father-in-law of Harry Groom, formerly of Clark county.

Monthly Meetings.

All of the 2,500 national banks in the United States which now hold board meetings at irregular and infrequent intervals must have monthly meetings of their boards of directors, appoint examining and discount committees and all the loans and discounts of each bank must be approved by the directorate at the monthly meeting, such approval to be recorded in permanent form. Such is the decision of Mr. Murray, Comptroller of the Currency, in a proclamation recently issued.

A consignment of horses, consisting of seventeen thoroughbred fillies, stallions and colts, bought at the recent midwinter sale, left Lexington Saturday for Valparaiso, Chile. Twelve belonged to M. A. Silvers, Lima, Peru, and others to J. R. Buttersby, of Valparaiso. Among the lot as the valuable stallion St. Vonicus, son of St. Simon. Messrs Silvers and Buttersby, who made the purchases and accompanied the shipment, stated that their horses would be used to improve the breed of Chile and Peru and not for racing purposes.

Morgan Buys Equitable.

Suggestion of definite character was made in banking quarters in New York that the taking over of the Equitable Life by Mr. Morgan would ultimately mean the combination of the Equitable Trust Company and the Mercantile Trust Company, now controlled by the Equitable Society, and one or perhaps two trust companies controlled by Mr. Morgan.

Paris Holds World Record.

Mrs. T. W. Titus, of this city, has three hens that have beat the world's record for laying eggs. A Plymouth Rock hen never before set laid in one year 292 eggs, a Buff Orpington hen produced in one year 281 eggs, and another of the same breed laid 233 eggs in one year. The total number of eggs produced by the three hens is 806.

WHAT SHE WAS WAITING FOR

Flat Dweller's Passing On of Discomfort She Endured Had Method Behind It.

The flat dweller hardly recognized the janitor, he was so polite, so modest, so self-effacing, as it were, as he stood at the door, his hat in his hand. "Is your kitchen still leaking?" he asked her softly.

"Still leaking!" she replied with scorn. It has been leaking a year, ever since she moved up-stairs. "May I come in and look at it?" still more softly asked the janitor.

She opened the door wide. He entered. He stood in the kitchen, looking up at the ceiling, at several holes through which the water came pattering, at the disgusting spotsches made by the leaks that had been leaking a year.

"It does leak, doesn't it?" he queried.

It was too much. The flat dweller went to washing her breakfast dishes left over in the sink.

"Would you like a large tub?" asked the janitor presently, when he observed that some of the leaks splashed on the floor. "Because the water is going into the next floor and spoiling the ceiling there."

"No, I thank you," answered the flat dweller politely, still at her dishes. "I am leaving it like that purposely. I've stood it a year. If the people below have to stand it for another year may be they'll make you mend the roof."

For thirty years kidney trouble made life a burden, but the first bottle of this wonderful medicine convinced me I had found the greatest cure on earth." PRINTED AT THIS OFFICE

... A Shop of a Different Kind ... For Women of Fashion.

To our way of thinking it is inconsistent with the dignity of a business to hold out the lure of COMPARATIVE VALUES as a means to invite response on the part of the women public. Its practice is studiously avoided WITH THIS STORE.

Our method has been and is to gain the patronage and confidence of women through the medium of HIGH CLASS garments at prices that are MARKEDLY MODEST.

This store is daily winning a broader and more WIDELY KNOWN RECOGNITION due wholly to this method. Our customers remark, after shopping about town, that here are to be found garments of a high and distinctive order, at prices that pronounce them DISTINCTIVE VALUES.

Court Day.

There was a smaller crowd in town yesterday than usual on December court days. There were about 100 mules on the market, those in good condition, ready for the market, were sold without any trouble at good prices. Poor mules were left on hand, the buyers not wanting them at any price. Mr. Thos. McClintock, of Millersburg, sold four mules to Chas. Thompson, of Lexington, and four to Asa Jewell, of Cincinnati, at from $170 to $215.

Auctioneer M. F. Kenney sold six milch cows on the public square from W. H. Whaley, for from $65 to $85.

Board of Supervisors.

Judge Denis Dundon, on yesterday appointed the following Board of Supervisors of taxable property for Bourbon county: Newt, Mitchell, Mike Murphy, Warren Rogers, E.B. Sparks, J. H. Thompson, Jos. Ewalt and W. G. Talbot.

MATRIMONIAL.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Duke, of Mayslick, was the scene of a beautiful wedding Thursday evening when their daughter, Rebecca Somerville Duke, was united in marriage to Mr. James B. Woodford, of this county.

The house was tastefully decorated with Southern smilax yellow chrysanthemums, the color scheme being yellow and white and was beautifully carried out in the various rooms.

Promptly at six o'clock the opening bars of Lohengrin's wedding march, rendered by Miss Berry and Mr. Bailey, of Maysville, announced the approach of the bridal party. "Sublime Sweet Evening Star" was rendered while Rev. Joseph Severance spoke the solemn words which made the happy couple one.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white satin trimmed in duchess and point lace and wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Myra Duke, wore white crepe meteor with crystal trimming and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

The groom wore the conventional black and was attended by his brother, Mr. William Woodford, of Bourbon.

Messrs. John W. Spears and Buckner Woodford, Jr., were the ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony was a reception, at which a course supper was served.

Mrs. Woodford changed her bridal robes for a traveling suit of green, with hat and gloves to match, and the bridal party drove to Maysville, leaving for the East on the 10:46 train, for a bridal trip. Upon their return they will reside in this county.

The bride is one of Mason's fairest daughters, admired and loved by a large circle of friends. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Woodford, and one of Bourbon's prosperous and highly esteemed young farmers.

Second Tie Game.

The last football game of the season was played last Friday at White's Park between the teams of the Paris and Cynthia High Schools. These teams had already played one game to a tie and of course the interest was intense.

The City School attended in a body and a great many friends of the school were present. All rooted enthusiastically for Paris. The score ended in a tie, the score being 5 to 5. Both touchdowns were made in the first half. Paris had the ball within a few feet of the goal line several times during the last half but were not able to push it over. The game was clean free from squabbling and the disagreeable features, and exciting throughout. The lineup of the Paris team was as follows:

Touchdowns were made by Link for Paris and Snodgrass for Cynthia.

Referee, Prentice Lancaster; Umpire, Prof. Hendricks; Timekeeper, Clay Sutherland. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

The Croxton Recital.

The recital given last Thursday evening by the ladies of the Baptist church was a charming event. Mr. Croxton has a bass voice very rich and deep, of remarkable quality, melodic even in the lowest notes and of resonant sonority in the upper. He has all the essentials needed to carry him far into artistic attainment. Mr. Croxton is endowed with every requisite that goes to make an artist—physique, poise and temperament. Miss Johnson was thoroughly at home with the pipe organ—the three numbers as beautifully executed were part of the delightful features of the evening.

The Paris people would be glad to hear these two artists again soon. The ladies of the Baptist church cleared $65.

Final Work of Old Council.

The City Council, with Mayor James M. O'Brien presiding, met Friday night in special session to complete its final work before the incoming new Council, which was last night to assume its two years of arduous work.

The most important business was the approval of the minutes of the last regular session, which was done without a dissenting vote. Mayor O'Brien called the attention of the Council to the fact that there was a vacancy on the Board of Health, which was filled by the election of Swift Champ, of the Bourbon News. The board now consists of Geo. W. Davis, William Dudley and Swift Champ, with Dr. William Kenney as Health Officer.

Negro Killed By Train.

The body of Albert Berry, a negro residing in Cynthiana, was found horribly mangled in the yards of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, near South end of Duncan Avenue cut, at an early hour Sunday morning and later taken to the undertaking establishment of Geo. W. Davis, where it was prepared for burial and sent to Cynthiana on the 8:30 p. m. train.

Berry, accompanied by his brother, Lawrence Berry, and another negro came to Paris Saturday on the 10:10 p. m. train. Berry insisted upon catching a freight train back home and went to the depot after his companions refused to go.

In attempting to board an outgoing freight he fell under the moving train. One leg was cut off, and the other badly mangled. His shoulder was crushed, his left arm mangled, and he was otherwise internally injured, dying instantly. Two quart bottles of whiskey which he carried in his pockets, were uninjured. Berry has a wife and three children.

Coroner Rudolph Davis held an inquest over the body and from the evidence no blame can be attached to the officials of the railroad.

Cindy's Logic.

Cindy was an old black southern "mammy," with all the lovable traits and inconsistencies of her kind. For many years she was cook in the Warren family and gave faithful and satisfactory service.

One summer the entire family were away for two months, and Mr. Warren gave Cindy a real vacation by paying her full wages for that time and giving her the keys to the well stocked storeroom.

A few days after the return of the family Cindy came bustling into Mrs. Warren's sitting room.

"I wants mo' wages," she announced. "Why, Cindy," exclaimed the surprised mistress, "you are getting better pay than any cook I know of in a family the size of ours. You have a nice, comfortable room and good treatment. Think how kind it was of Mr. Warren to give you a long vacation with your full wages."

"Dat's it," grumbled Cindy. "Mr. Warren paid me dat money fur doin' nuthin'. An' now all you folks is come back fur me to cook fur an' wait on. An' I gits more money or I leaves."—Lippincott's.

A Costly Client.

Miss Bayley told me that Mr. Phipps the oculist, told a gentleman, who told her, the following anecdote of the late Duchess of Devonshire: Mr. Phipps was sent for to Chatsworth to operate upon the duchess's eye. He stayed there some time and at parting received from the duke a fee of £1,000. Just before he stepped into his carriage a message from the duchess brought him to her chamber. She hoped the duke had done what was handsome by Mr. Phipps. The gentleman protested:

"Yes, and more than handsome." "It is an awful thing," continued her grace, "to ask, but really I am at this moment in immediate want of such a sum, and if you could, Mr. Phipps."

What could the oculist do? He produced his £1,000, took his leave and never heard of his money from that day to this.—From "Recollections of a Long Life," by Lord Brougham (John Cam Hobhouse).

Shakespeare's House.

The house in which the master bard was born is located in Henley street, Stratford-on-Avon, England. Washington Irving said of this famous abode of genius: "It is a small, mean looking edifice of wood and plaster, a true nesting place of genius, which seems to delight in hatching its offspring in by-ways. The walls of its squalid chambers are covered with names and inscriptions in every language by pilgrims of all nations, ranks and conditions, from the prince to the peasant, and present a simple but striking instance of the spontaneous and universal homage of mankind to the great poet of nature."

Several years ago the house was purchased by subscription with a view to the careful preservation of it and of its contents for the inspection of future generations.

Tuning a Bell.

No matter how great may be the care taken in making the mold, a bell has to be tuned before it will ring a clear, true note. As a matter of fact, every bell sounds five notes, all of which must blend together harmoniously. If one is the least bit out of tune will be spoiled. The first of these notes is produced by the vibrations at the mouth of the bell, the second by the vibrations a little higher up, the third still higher up, and so on to the fifth, which is produced quite near the top. As the character of the sound which rings depends upon the thickness of the metal, it is possible, by taking thin shavings from various places in the inside of the bell, to alter the five notes until they are all in harmony.

Name to Fit the Trade.

Old newspapers give us many instances of men's names fitting their callings. Thus we have Last, a shoemaker of Exeter, and Treadway, who plied the same trade in Hammer-smith. There was a Bristol schoolmaster named Rod, Dodge and Wynne, attorneys at law of Liverpool, must have been the butts of their fellow townsmen, while few could have a more appropriate name than the Primitive Methodist preacher River Jordan.—London Chronicle.

No Escape Via Temperament.

"Mabel is getting past the marriageable age, isn't she?" "Yes, and it's too bad she hasn't any talents."

"Why?" "She won't be able to tell her friends that temperament prompts her to give up matrimony, and devote herself to art."—St. Louis Star.

A Foolish Question.

A reader of the New York World writes to that paper to ask whether it is proper for a young man to send candy to a girl whom he has met but once. What a question! Why, most young men begin handing a girl taffy as soon as they are introduced to her.—Washington Post.

Frills.

Mrs. Crabshaw—The new girl I have said she had taken a course in domestic science. Mrs. Crawford—Is she different from the other girls you've had? Mrs. Crabshaw—Only in one way; she wanted $5 a month more.—Lippincott's.

The Barrier.

"Yes, my husband and I quarrel incessantly." "Why don't you get a divorce?" "We can't bear to. What would become of Fido?"—Cleveland Leader.

How He Paid His Fine.

Pat Kelly, the owner of the only jaunting car in the village, went on a spree and was sentenced to a fine of 20 shillings or seven days in jail. Kelly chose the latter.

Now, the prison was ten miles away, and the only possible means of getting a prisoner there was by driving. As Kelly himself had the only car in the place, there was nothing to do but to hire it. For some time the constable and his prisoner haggled over the terms.

Kelly stuck out firmly for 30 shillings, to be paid in advance, and at last the constable had to consent to the extortion. Accordingly they drove off and without any misadventures arrived at the prison. When they had alighted Kelly suddenly informed his companion that he had changed his mind, as the prison wasn't a decent looking place, and would pay the fine.

He thereupon drew out the 30 shillings he had received, counted out the 20 shillings and paid them over to the inspector. Then, jumping on his car, he drove away, leaving the constable to walk back.

A House In Pompeii.

In the exhumation of Pompeii one house was discovered which was evidently being repaired when the volcanic storm that overwhelmed the city hurled it to the ground. Painters, decorators and cleaners must have been busy at the very moment of the catastrophe. Painters' pots and brushes and workmen's tools were scattered all over the house. Telltale spots of whitewash starred wall and floor. Such domestic implements as pots and kettles had been bundled up in a corner all by themselves. There was a bronze dish in waiting before the oven and on the dish a sucking pig ready to be baked. But the oven was already engaged with its full complement of bread. So the pig had to wait. It, however, never entered the oven after all, and the loaves were not taken out. They had remained where placed to bake. It is calculated, close upon 2,000 years. There were twenty-three of them, rather crusty, of course, and somewhat dark colored, but otherwise perfectly preserved.

Whitefield on Love and Marriage.

George Whitefield, the most persuasive preacher England has produced, who died on Sept. 30, 1770, could appeal so powerfully to the emotions that he once enticed all the money from the pocket of the prudent Franklin. Yet he strangely anticipated some modern unromantic views on the subject of marriage. In 1740 he applied to the parents of a young lady for the hand of their daughter, adding, "If I know anything of my own heart I am free from that foolish passion which the world calls love."

When this prosaic proposal was declined the undaunted Whitefield married an elderly Welsh widow "neither rich nor beautiful." This "merry widow" did not make a congenial helpmate, and Whitefield remarked, with refreshing candor, that "her death set 'bis' mind at rest."—Westminster Gazette.

Catching Monkeys.

Ringtailed monkeys, which rank among the most valuable, commercially speaking, of the small animals, are caught in an interesting way. A coconut is split in two and a banana with a piece of wood running through it placed lengthwise through the nut, the two halves of which are drawn together by wires. Then a hole is cut just large enough for the monkey's paw to enter. The monkey spies the tempting nut from his tree. He hops down, looks it over, sees the hole and smells the banana inside. He is fond of bananas. Putting his paw in, he grasps it, but the wood prevents it from coming out. Then the catchers appear, and the monkey runs for a tree. But he cannot climb because of the coconut on his paw, and he will not let go of that, so he is captured, pawing wildly at the tree trunk.

The Experiment Failed.

When a small boy mentioned in Short Stories grows up the scientific curiosity he displayed may be a valuable possession. Meanwhile his mother objects to it.

"Ma," remarked the boy, "isn't it funny that everybody calls little brother a bouncing baby?"

"Why do you think it's funny, William?" asked his mother.

"Because when I dropped him off the porch this morning he didn't bounce a bit; he just hollered."

How Toucans Roost.

Nothing could be more eccentric to our eyes than the way in which toucans go to roost. The bird does not "tuck its head under its wing, poor thing," and so settle down, but packs itself up in most orderly fashion. The tail is turned forward over the back, in the soft feathers of which the gigantic bill is hidden. Then the tail shuts down, all semblance of a bird is lost, and one can see nothing but a ball of feathers.—Chicago Standard.

Brother Goodsole's Mistake.

"Brother Goodsole," asked the Rev. K. Mowatt Laighty, "did you announce last Sunday that I would occupy your pulpit this morning?" "Indeed, I did, Brother Laighty." "Yet look at the smallness of the congregation. I can't account for it."—Chicago Tribune.

Her Unfashionable Figure.

Punishment is a cripple, but he arrives.—Spanish Proverb.

Death Certificates For Dogs.

The veterinarian was bandaging the leg of a French poodle when the telephone rang, so he asked the visitor to take the message.

"Please tell the doctor," said a woman at the other end of the wire, "that King Charles is dead and we would like a death certificate right away."

The visitor transmitted the news of royalty demise, then added something about the "tomfoolery of getting a death certificate for a dog."

"It may be tomfoolery," said the veterinarian, "but a lot of people with pet cats and dogs are guilty of it. If a real King Charles was dead and I was making out a certificate to file with the board of health I should take no more pains than I shall for that family that has lost a dog. His age and the date of death will be recorded, and the disease that carried him off will be described in detail. Of course the owners of valuable animals are most likely to ask for death certificates, but very often the possessor of an ugly little cur that has crept into his affections wants one too."—New York Sun.

How to Hit.

With one swift, straight right to the jaw the little man had knocked the big, fat bully out completely. Now he was boasting modestly about the matter.

"I learned how to hit," he said, "from Gentleman Jim Corbett. Gentleman Jim claims that in street fighting if you land one clean right you win. But few men know how to hit out straight and clean. They swing. And a swing is no good because it can so easily be dodged."

"To hit out with the right straight and swift—this is how Jim taught me to do it. You step forward with your left foot toward the enemy. You hit straight out with your right arm as hard as you can, at the same time showing your body forward and pushing off with the ball of your right foot as though you were going to shove the whole earth from under you."

Why He Gave Nothing.

"I've encountered many an excuse for 'sidestepping' the collection basket in church," remarked a Jersey commuter, "but the prize excuse came to me last Sunday out in our town. Next to me in church sat an acquaintance who had taken out a dollar bill, but when he saw the collector was a substitute for the regular brother he put the money back in his pocket. I taxed him with it good naturedly on the way out, and he was very frank."

"You needn't publish it," said he, "but I know that man pretty well. Now, I happen to owe him $5, and he's dunning me unnecessarily for it. I know him so well that I know if I put that dollar bill in the basket he'd find a way to abstract it and pocket it as part of what I owe him. And he'd really feel he was justified too. That's the way he's built, don't you see?"—New York Globe.

Rebuking a Greenhorn.

A whist expert discussed at a dinner those overconfident and foolish persons who think they can learn whist in a year or two.

"Such persons should be called to order," the expert said sternly. "I for one am always glad to see them called to order. A young greenhorn stood behind my partner during a game one night. At the end of the hand the greenhorn said:

"Why didn't you lead hearts? That's what I'd have done."

"My partner smiled and answered:

"Ah, but you, my young friend, have the world before you and none but yourself to consider. You have no wife and family dependent on you for bread, and if you lose heavily no one suffers but yourself. With me it is different; hence I led spades."

Necessity of Air Baths.

The conditions and conventions of our civilization demand frequent bathing. Any one suspected of avoiding a daily bath would quickly find himself persona non grata in decent society. It is popularly supposed that frequent bathing is essential to health. This is quite untrue. Much of the benefit attributed to the water is in reality due to the complete exposure of the skin to the air. The respiratory function of the skin is of high importance, and, although water may be dispensed with, closing the pores to air would result in speedy asphyxiation.—New York Medical Journal.

A Dreaded Contingency.

A young girl of fourteen was taking a trip on Lake Michigan in a small steamer. The lake was somewhat rough, and many were seasick. The girl sat in the bow and was unusually quiet for her. "Are you feeling sick, daughter?" inquired her father. "No; I don't think I am sick, but I should hate to yawn."—Life.

Blocking Him.

"Say, old man," began Borrowous, "lend me your ear for awhile, will you?"

"My friend," replied Wise, shrewdly suspecting a touch. "I'd gladly lend you both of them; then I wouldn't be able to hear you ask me to lend you anything else."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Inconsistent.

"Sne (pretty, but sedate)—I admire a man who holds fast to his ideal. He (a ninny)—But—but you won't let me.—Boston Herald.

It was an Irish philosopher who said the strangest things in some newspapers are the ones that are left out.

Theaters of Different Ages.

The difference between the playhouse in which we see a drama of Bronson Howard's today and the playhouse in which Sheridan's comedies were originally acted is greater than the difference between Sheridan's Drury Lane and the house for which Congreve wrote and in which Betterton acted. And that restoration playhouse was very unlike the Elizabethan theater for which Shakespeare wrote and in which Burbage acted. Even more apparent is the difference between the theater of Dionysius at Athens and the Roman theater at Orange. These theaters are sharply distinguished from one another by their size, by their shape, by their methods of illumination, by the absence or presence of real scenery and by the arrangement of the seats for the spectators, and as we study these successive changes we are confirmed in the conviction that these physical conditions must have exerted a powerful influence upon the dramatists who followed one another down the centuries.—Brander Matthews in Century.

Wisdom In Fable.

Among the best things that have ever been written are the Aesop's fables, which date back to the sixth century B. C. They present human nature as it always has been, is and probably always will be. Take, for example, the story of "The Fox Without a Tail."

"A fox was once caught in a trap by his tail and in order to get free was obliged to leave it behind. He knew that his fellows would make fun of his tailless condition, so he made up his mind to induce them all to part with their tails. At the next assemblage of foxes he made a speech on the uselessness of tails in general and the inconvenience of a fox's tail in particular, declaring that never in his whole life had he felt so comfortable as now in his tailless freedom. When he sat down a sly old fox rose and, waving his brush, said, with a sneer, that if he had lost his tail he would be convinced by the last speaker's arguments, but until such an accident occurred he fully intended to vote in favor of tails."

Peculiar Superstitions.

The people of Kulu are extremely superstitious and go in extensively for demonolatry. Many trees are held to be sacred and have tiny temples dedicated to them. The demons are popularly supposed to live at the tops of trees, and if a tree falls in such a way that it is possible to pass under it, as is often the case on the mountain sides, every man before going beneath the trunk will place on it a stick or stone to propitiate its guardian spirit. Certain streams are also sacred, and no one is allowed to wash dirty clothes in them. One year some strangers came into the valley and happened to pollute the water of a river in this manner. It chanced to be a year of extraordinary rainfall, and the people implicitly believe that the excessive rain was sent by the outraged "deota" of the stream as punishment.—Wide World Magazine.

Helping Hubby Out.

"Your wife seems to be wonderfully interested in your business. Must be a source of great satisfaction to you."

"Yes, indeed. Do you know I used to think she cared nothing about it."

"Why the change?" "I don't know. That's the funny part of it. I can't imagine what has changed her. A few nights ago I went home, tired most to death, and during the evening I casually remarked: 'Jole, my business is getting most too much for me to handle. I am thinking of employing a sly, steady stenographer and typewriter. Don't you think it would be a good idea?' From that moment the good little woman has been extremely anxious to assist me and make my lot easier in every way. I suppose it's her natural sympathetic nature. It must be."—Boston Herald.

A Brilliant Judge.

Steady Baker was at one time mayor of Folkestone, England. Once a boy was brought before him for stealing gooseberries, and Steady, aware of the importance of the case, turned over the pages of the alphabetically arranged "Burn's Justice" for a precedent. Failing to find one, he turned to the culprit. "My lad," said he, "it's lucky for you that you were not brought here for stealing a goose instead of for stealing gooseberries. There is a statute against stealing geese, but I can't find anything about gooseberries in all 'Burn,' so let the prisoner be discharged, for I suppose it is no offense."

The Way Down.

They had been making hay while the sun shone, and when they had finished a high haystack the farmer's boy shouted, from the top, "Say, mister, how am I goin' to get down?"

The farmer considered the problem and finally solved it: "Oh, jest shet yer eyes an' walk round a bit!"—Everybody's.

Notwithstanding.

"Here, hold my horse a minute, will you?"

"Sir! I'm a member of congress." "Never mind. You look honest. I'll take a chance."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

What's Watts?

The Mayor—Watts' wife is a suffragette.

The Colonel—What's Watts?

"A sufferer."—Smart Set.

Blood For Bread.

Hunger! To what lengths will it drive men! Here is a passage from "Force," a tale of Napoleon's days describing how ten veteran Hussars under a young officer, after two days without food, fought like fiends for a loaf of bread stolen from a woodman: "He trembled with covetousness, but he did not move. He was starving, but he was an officer."

"The foremost rider speared the loaf up with his saber, clutched it and began to eat. The others quickly closed in on him. He was gripped from behind and half strangled. The bread fell into the mud. The men then began to fight in bitter earnest, and their sabers flashed dimly in the falling rain. One of them reeled under a saber stroke and fell back on his horse."

"He (the officer) flung himself in the melee and was thrown from his horse. As he crawled along the mud out of the way of the trampling hoofs he put his hand on the bread. His fears at once vanished. He bent over his prize, hiding it from view of the struggling soldiers, and lowered his head and got the loaf under his teeth and ate it."

Nature's Handiwork.

The down upon the peach or plum is so delicate and so thickly set that one cannot touch the fruit with a needle's point without breaking the tender stalk, and yet the dew of the night covers the whole surface of the fruit and disappears in the morning, leaving the gossamer growth more orderly and beautiful than before. The dew covers every leaf of the giant oak, and the mighty tree drinks in the refreshing moisture to its thirsty heart through millions of pores, and the iron trunk that has withstood a thousand storms is made stronger by the gentle strength of the dew. The silent fall of the dew is caused and controlled by agencies of the most tremendous power. The same power which shakes a whole continent with its subterranean thunder is the same as that which encircles the finest filament of thistle-down with a coronet of dewy gems so small that they do not bend the delicate stalks with their weight.—London Globe.

A Hector Outthetored.

A publisher's reader at a literary club hectorated a group of novelists. "You chaps," he sneered, "must always be coining new words. Good English isn't good enough for you. In the last half dozen manuscript novels I turned down there were such horrible neologisms as 'he hoarsed,' 'she parroted,' 'they shrilled,' 'he glimpsed her,' 'it supremed,' and so forth. Faugh!"

"Let me inform you," cried a novelist defiantly, "that your remark shows a pitiful ignorance on your part of our mother tongue. As for 'shrilling,' Tennyson writes:

"With petulant thumb and finger shrilling 'Hence!'"

"Chapman, the great Chapman, is an authority for 'parroted.' 'Glimpsing' has been used by Howells and Lowell, and 'supreme' as a verb may be found in Shelley's letters."—Washington Post.

The Chinese Burglar.

"The Chinese burglar is the most difficult to nab," declared Lecoq, the detective. "I might say he is impossible to nab. When this yellow scoundrel goes burgling he goes naked and covered with oil, and thus he is as slippery as an eel. But, you say, why not nab him by the pigtail, hey? The answer to that is that his pigtail is done up in a knot on top of his head and stuck full of needles and hatpins with the points turned outward. You often see a Chinaman in Pekin or Shanghai with his clothes stained with oil and with tiny red pricks all over him. He's been having trouble with a burglar."

Vegetable Suspension Bridge.

A remarkable suspension bridge spans the river Apurimac in central Peru. The ropes of this bridge are composed of pliable roots and vines, while the planks are made of branches. In the humid climate of Peru it would be by no means extraordinary if this vegetable bridge were one day to start growing.—Wide World Magazine.

The Court's Double.

"You say it was your 'double' that stole the chickens?"

"Yassuh."

"You know I gave you thirty days once for chicken stealing?"

"Ah remembah, suh."

"Well, this time you get sixty. That's the court's double."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Practical Considerations.

"My family tree"—began the titled suitor.

"I'm tired of hearing about family trees," answered Mr. Camrox. "In the part of the country I came from a man's industry and consequence are measured by the size of the family wood piles."—Washington Star.

STOCK, CROP AND FARM NOTES.

—In Jessamine, Charles McCray sold 1,200 bushels of wheat to the Star Milling Co., at $1.22 per bushel. It graded 55 to 57 3/4.

—Willis Clark sold his farm of 92 acres, lying near the Bourbon county line in Montgomery, to his brother, O. B. Clark. The price paid per acre was $95.

—Jonas Weil shipped from Cynthia, 102 head of cattle which he recently bought from Clarence Lobus at 6 cents per pound. The total amount was $3,940.

—Kentucky's Choice, noted saddle stallion, was sold at Lexington, Friday, by W. J. Hackney of Oakland, Ky., to Mrs. Richard T. Lowndes, of Danville, Mat Cohen and J. L. Gay, for $7,000.

—Kentucky leads all the States in tobacco grown, producing more than one third of the crop of the country and about one ninth of the entire crop of the world. While some tobacco is produced in almost every State, less than one per cent of the country's crop is grown West of the Mississippi river. Texas being the only trans-Mississippi State in which the industry has gained much importance.

—In a summary of the report of the Director of Agricultural Experiment Stations we find the following: At the Kentucky station it was found in work with the organism causing the rotting of tobacco that it is identical with one causing the rotting of cabbage. "It is believed," says the report "that the grading of tobacco used for the stations and for farmers sending it into the station is having its effect on the tobacco of the State. The growing of tobacco seed under paper bags to prevent crossing is also giving beneficial results."

—A Nebraska farmer writing to a friend back in Indiana was trying to give some idea of the productivity of the soil out there. He said that they had to mow the grass off the sod house floor every day to find the babies. One family near had two twins babies, with only one cradle and the kid that had to sleep on the floor grew twice as fat as the other. Where the soil is richest a man dares not stand on one foot any length of time lest that leg become longer and bothers walking.

—A Georgia newspaper commenting on the cry from one of the counties of that big State for 1,000 more farmers, remarks that there are 146 counties in the State which need as many. All the Eastern and Northern States badly need good farmers, competent, intelligent, up-to-date men to till the soil properly and get from it the largest and best crop with the least possible expenditure of soil and money. New York State needs farmers of the best sort as badly as Georgia needs them, though perhaps not so many.—New York Times.

Totems.

Among the savage and barbarian tribes, especially the North American Indians, a totem is the symbol of a family or clan, and is usually some animal or natural object. It serves as a sort of surname for the family. Its importance lies in the idea that individuals trace their lineage from it. The turtle, bear and wolf are favored and honored totems among many tribes. The obligations growing out of a common totem are scrupulously regarded. Inter-marriage among those having it is criminal. All such, of whatever clan or tribe, friendly or hostile, have rights of hospitality, or succor in distress and of friendship as blood relations. The totem is never changed.

Lazy.

He thirsted for applause—
Said to the world, "Begin it!"
But had it not, because
He was too tired to win it.

Earth's Magnetic Poles.

The magnetic poles of the earth are two points nearly opposite of the earth's surface where the dip of the magnetic needle is exactly 90 degrees. The statement usually made that a freely suspended magnetic needle, remote from magnetic masses, tends to point due north and south, is not correct except for a few localities and certain times.

The actual nature of the earth's magnetic field must be found by extended experiments which are being carried on by many scientists, largely under the direction of this and other governments. It is a field that offers great opportunities for scientific research, particularly since the discovery of the north pole.

BANK DIRECTORS MUST TAKE RESPONSIBILITY

All Loans and Discounts Must Be Approved, Says Comptroller Murray.

[From the Lexington Herald Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1903.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.-All of the 2,500 national banks in the United States must appoint examining and discount committees and all the loans and discounts of each bank must be approved by the directorate board at the monthly meeting, such approval to be recorded in permanent form.

This was the pronouncement of Comptroller of the Currency Murray today. In order to round out his plan for the directors to control the banks under their supervision, the comptroller has asked all of these banks to amend and forward to the comptroller's office a copy of their by-laws amended to meet the provisions just stated.

This new ruling of the comptroller, in the line of safe-guarding the people's money deposited in National banks, does not affect the First National of Paris, which has always had such committees.

The only bank in Bourbon county under the supervision of the government, which sends its examiners with out notice at its own pleasure, solicit your account.

Carey Act! Carey Act! Carey Act!

LAND OPENING!

December 20, 1909.

Wyoming Irrigated Land for $37.50 per Acre, on Ten Years' Time, and Under the "Carey Act," too. Think of It.

Special excursion leaves Chicago December 17th, 1909. Sleepers direct to the lands and remain until after the drawings; round-trip tickets astonishingly cheap; richest of soil; most perfect irrigation system, with perpetual water rights; best of markets; delightful, healthful climate; splendid transportation facilities, and all for $37.50 per acre, and that on ten years' time.

We own thousands of acres adjoining the village of Uva, Laramie County, Wyoming. Some people now there are going to grow rich within the next few years. We have one of the best irrigating systems in the United States—three reservoirs; head-gates and flood-gates of structural iron set in solid cut-stone masonry. Good schools, churches, telephone, rural free delivery—in fact all of the benefits of modern civilization here obtained.

Crop Yields

Wheat	50 bushels per acre
Oats	40 to 60 bushels per acre
Barley	40 to 60 bushels per acre
Rye	30 to 50 bushels per acre
Potatoes	150 to 300 bushels per acre
Sugar Beets	12 to 15 tons per acre
Alfalfa	3 to 7 tons per acre

Live Stock Advantages

Allow your stock to run on U. S. Government lands adjoining our lands on the north, bring them in and finish them for market on alfalfa and grains grown on your irrigated lands. No other irrigation system that we know of offers you so good a chance to double your profits.

Under these conditions our lands work 24 hours a day and 365 days a year. Don't you think a partner working like this would be most desirable? Winters short, delightfully dry and healthful. Plowing permissible each month during the winter. Remember, "It matters not how long we live, BUT HOW."

It does not require a Daniel Webster intellect to see the desirability of our proposition.

Plan Now to Start With Us December 17th

No better time to see these lands. Huge alfalfa stacks, immense straw stacks, bulging grain bins, crowded potato cellars, and thousands of tons of sugar beets—evidence character of soil and climate conditions, AND THEIR COMBINED PRODUCTIVE POWERS.

We want you to see these lands before you invest a dollar anywhere else. We know that this is the opportunity for YOU, whether you are now owner, tenant, or young man starting in life.

BIRDS' NECKS.

It's the Number of Bones in Them That Makes Them Flexible.

The flamingoes were making their afternoon toilet in the big flying cage at the Bronx zoo the other afternoon, says a writer in a New York paper. A crowd of children and grown people were looking on and exclaiming with admiring wonder at the way these birds were twisting their long necks about into all sorts of corkscrews and curves when one of the ornithological experts came along and stopped to watch the performance.

"It's the larger number of bones in a bird's neck, not the length, that make it so flexible," he remarked. "There are twenty-three bones in the neck of a swan, for example, and a few more in that of the flamingo. It seems that the smaller the animal organism the larger the number of neck bones. The giraffe, for instance, has only seven bones in his long neck, which has a reach of nearly twenty feet from the ground. That little white throated sparrow over there is only three inches high, but he has fourteen bones in his neck and can almost scratch the back of his head with his bill. The swan has twenty-three neck bones and swings his head about with even greater freedom than a snake."

THE PLEBEIANS.

Their Secession From Rome and Their Rise to Power.

Plebeians were the commons of Rome, who were originally forbidden all political rights. They were for the most part poor and were not allowed to intermarry with the patricians. They served in the army without pay and were sold into slavery for debt and could even be put into places for distribution among their creditors. Finding their condition intolerable, the plebeians in 497 B. C. seceded to Mons Sacer, near Rome, where they resolved to build a new city. But this step so alarmed the privileged classes that they granted to the commons the right of annually choosing from their own numbers two magistrates, called tribunes, with power to protect them against the aggressions of the patricians.

After the lapse of about 200 years the disabilities of the plebeians were almost entirely removed, and between the years 354-300 B. C. they secured the dictatorship, the censorship and the praetorship as well as the right to be pontiff and augur. Thus the Roman republic, after two centuries of existence, finally secured a democratic form of government.—New York American.

Sweat and Perspire.

It is possible to tell almost exactly when the more elegant "perspire" drove out the vulgar "sweat." According to a writer in the London Gentleman's Magazine in 1791, "for some time past neither man, woman nor child in Great Britain and Ireland of any rank or fashion has been subject to the gross form of exudation which was formerly known as 'sweat.' Now every mortal, except carters, coal heavers and chairmen, merely 'perspires.' For these twenty years past the word 'sweat' has been gradually becoming more and more odious."

Before 1770 or so "perspiration" commonly meant an insensible process, "sweating" the grosser variety thereof. In one of his sermons Wesley remarked that "during a night's sleep a healthy man perspires one part in four less when he sweats than when he does not." That would be meaningless today.

Queer Sort of Borrow.

He was displaying with much pride a silver dollar "pocket piece." "One of my best friends," he said, patting it fondly. "Have had it ten years, and during that time have been dead broke half a hundred times and in actual need of food and a bed quite often."

"What!" a listener exclaimed. "Keep a dollar from sentiment and go hungry and sleepless?" "I didn't say so," the other replied. "I never went that far. You see, when I'm so hard pressed I use the coin as collateral. I borrow another dollar and give this one as security—to be held till called for. Queer sort of borrow, isn't it? But the coin's too good a friend to desert."—New York Globe.

Identified Her.

"A story of lovely woman's ability to rise superior to those petty details which so often hamper, limit and nullify the operations of any mere man is told of a Harrison woman who tried to have a check cashed at a bank where she was not known, says the Newark Call. The usual remarks were made by the cashier concerning the need of identification, to which the woman immediately replied: 'Oh, well, that's easy. I can always be identified by this mole on my cheek.'"

A Mistaken Cure.

"Jennie!" yelled the composer. "Yes, dear," called back the gentle wife. "Why in thunder don't you keep that kid quiet? What ails it?" "I can't think, dear. I'm singing one of your lullabies to the poor little darling!"—Hippocott's.

A Potential Difference.

"Pa, what's the difference between idealism and realism?" "Idealism, my son, is the contemplation of marriage; realism is being married."—Boston Transcript.

The world is a ladder for some to go up and others to come down.—French Proverb.

HIS OWN MEDICINE.

The Dose That Was Handed to the Persistent Agent.

He was a sewing machine agent of the most aggressive type. For twenty minutes the lady of the house had been awaiting an opportunity to say that she already possessed one.

At last he paused, only long enough, however, to thrust a card into the lady's hand.

The bit of pasteboard was certainly a novelty.

"My name is Sellem," it read, "of the firm of Blank & Co., sewing machine manufacturers, and I intend to prove to you that it is madness to defer purchasing one of our unequalled machines."

After a long description of the machine came the following: "You may plead that you are unable to work a machine. I will remove that objection in fifteen minutes or in three lessons. Will call next Wednesday."

When the agent called again a six foot man opened the door and blandly remarked:

"You're the sewing machine man, I suppose?"

"Yes, I called last week, and"—

"Yes, I know," interrupted the big man. "You don't know me, I suppose. My name's Bury of Bury & Keepem, undertakers, and I intend to prove to you that it is madness to defer purchasing one of our unequalled coffins."

The agent began to edge away.

"You may plead that you are scarcely qualified for a coffin," the big man went on. "I will remove that objection in ten seconds."

But the agent simply tore from the house.—London Tit-Bits.

WHAT TO DO.

Hints on First Aid to Everybody on All Occasions.

When a man rushes into your office hurriedly and says:

"By jingo, Dawson, I hate to speak of it, but I need $500 like the very old Dickens today!"

Answer—"What a singular coincidence, Hinks! I do too!"

When the lovely young maiden at the seaside to whom you have been paying court all summer shakes her head violently and says:

"No, Mr. Blithers, I cannot imagine any circumstances under which I could be induced to marry you."

Answer—"Thanks, Miss Jones. This is a great relief. I was afraid you had misconstrued my attentions and, of course, desired to live up to my implied obligations."

When you run face to face with your tailor upon the street and he turns a cold, dead eye upon you and says:

"Excuse me, Mr. Hump, but what have you to say about my little bill?"

Answer—"I don't think I have met your little Bill, Mr. Snippeton. Indeed, I didn't know you had any children at all."

While he is recovering from this jump into a taxi and proceed to break the speed laws.—Caryle Smith in Harper's Weekly.

Relative Strength of Arms.

As a result of some very interesting experiments made at Washington with a view to determine the relative strength of right and left limbs it has been ascertained that over 50 per cent of the men examined had the right arm stronger than the left, 16.40 per cent had the arms of equal length and strength, and 32.70 per cent had the left arm stronger than the right. Of women 40.90 per cent had the right arm stronger than the left, and 24.50 per cent had the left stronger than the right. In order to arrive at the average length of limbs fifty skeletons were measured, twenty-five of each sex. Of these twenty-three had the right arm and left leg longer, six the left arm and right leg, while in seventeen cases all the members were more or less equal in length.—Exchange.

Disadvantages of Poverty.

"We're going to move again in a month or two," said the little girl on the back porch. "We move into a new house every year."

"We don't," said the little girl in the adjoining yard. "My papa owns this house."

"And you don't ever move into any other one?"

"No."

"My, my! It must be awful to be as poor as that!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Reliable Plan.

"Whenever I don't like a man very well," remarked the cynical person, "I give him a tip on the races. I don't care how much it loses for him."

"But suppose it wins?"

"Then he's unhappy because he didn't bet more."

"And if he doesn't bet at all?"

"I keep on giving tips until one does win, and then he feels as if he had missed the chance of his life."—Washington Star.

A Rialto View.

"Why not?" responded Yorick Hamm. "Everybody feels that he has got to stand for it if it comes along. No man is going to admit that Shakespeare is over his head."—Washington Herald.

His Little Joke.

Percy—I saw a wrestler for an hour with me scart this morning. Algernon—Which won the victory, dear boy, you or the scart? Percy—Neither. Can't you see the match wrestled in a tie? Haw, haw!—Chicago News.
